

Over the years, so many half-truths & full-out lies have been told about marijuana that it's hard to say where the truth lies, exactly.

Reefer Madness

From the hysteria whipped up by early movies like "Reefer Madness" to the latest everybody-must-get-stoned hype, both sides have confused the issue.

So what's true? What's known for sure is that pot is a complex drug that can affect health & behavior in a number of ways. And it poses special risks for kids, pregnant women, and people who smoke a lot.

So do yourself a favor: Make a healthy choice (& the only safe bet) when it comes to pot: Leave it alone.

It probably won't send you spinning over the edge in a 'Reefer Madness' mental meltdown.

But it probably won't do you a lot of good, either.
