

DON'T SHOOT!

AIDS. It's a waking nightmare for thousands of intravenous drug users.

Because the fact is that one of the fastest ways to transmit AIDS is by sharing a needle or works with an infected person. And here's the scary part: There's no easy way of telling if the person you're sharing with is infected.

So do yourself a favor. Don't shoot drugs. Or, at least, don't share needles or other shooting equipment.

Because, today, a dirty needle, works, or spoon can be a straight shot to AIDS.

And AIDS is a nightmare no one needs.
